

S1. Judging positions

Harry de Waard – Tjalling Goedemoed

In this chapter we will discuss two game types:
The right wing lock and the fork-lock.
This is because locks are treated in the first section.

In the rest of this chapter we will practice the art of judging positions. We discussed seven features to be able to judge a position:

- 1) Formations
- 2) Locks
- 3) Development. Dirod (☹)
- 4) Strategic squares
- 5) Weaknesses
- 6) Space
- 7) Tactics

In the introduction the different kind of exercises are explained.

Judging positions 1

G. Bosker – A. Domchev

A) Why is black's position much better than the white one?

White played 1.32-28?

B) Why is this move bad?

1... 14-20 2.50-45?

C) How did black force a win now?

S. Tuytel – M. van Dijk

White has lots of formations, but still his position is very bad.
Which of the 7 features are responsible for this?

3 Black to move

V. Kudriavcev – A. Tolchikov

A) Black allowed white to lock his right wing with 31-26. Why isn't this a problem for black?

B) Which move would you advise black to play?

4 Black to move

A. Ketelaars – R. Bhawanibiek

White appears to have a good position at first sight. He has lots of formations working together. He threatens to play 33-29. The danger of white's position is that he has only one plan. If this plan fails, he has no other plans. In such a case we can say: White's position isn't flexible.

How can black force a huge advantage?

J. Lemmen – A. Kosior

Explain why white's position is better than the black one!

- A) Describe the weaknesses in black's position
- B) Try to find a plan for white (to move) taking advantage of black's weaknesses.

- A) Calculate the Dirod

B) The position is:

- A) Better for white
- B) Better for black
- C) About equal

Which statement is true?

- A) White's position is better, because of his many formations.
- B) Black is better because he controls both wings.

Which statement is true?

- A) Black has a strong centre position
- B) White can surround the black position successfully.

A) Try to judge this position. First you examine the seven features of the position. After that you judge the position by looking at the relevant features.

- 1) Formations:
- 2) Locks:
- 3) Development. Dirod (☹) =
- 4) Strategic squares:
- 5) Weaknesses:
- 6) Space:
- 7) Tactics

B) Which are the most relevant features of the position? .

A. Baliakin – H. Meijer
29.32-28 23x32 30.37x28

Black can't play 18-23x23 due to 33-28 and he also fears to become chain-locked by 38-32-27.

30... 16-21 31.41-37

C) Why doesn't white play 31-26?

31... 21-26

D) How does white use his formations after 31... 21-27?

32.38-32 3-9 33.43-38 14-19?

The beginning of a wrong plan. Black wants to take <23>.

34.31-27 22x31 35.36x27 18-23?

E) Why is this position bad for black?

36.33-29! 2-7

Because of the gaps black can't play 12-18 ...

37.29x18 12x23 38.39-33

Black is in dire straits. Now tactics become his biggest problem:

F) Show how next moves are punished:

- 38...7-12
- 38...8-12
- 38... 15-20
- 38... 6-11

2) Try to judge this position. First you examine the seven features of the position. After that you judge the position by looking at the relevant features.

5) Judge the position by using the known procedure.

Judging positions 1

1A) Black has more active formations. White can build a fork playing 50-45 but this fork isn't active at all. 4 Pieces are aimed at one single piece <25>. White's pieces aren't working together well either. There are gaps at <37 & 39>. Black controls the wings.

B) After 32-28 white has no single formation left. With no formations and several gaps in your position it isn't right to make a decision, that is, to decide to put a piece on the 26 – 30 row. White should instead connect his pieces, so playing 43-39 or 41-37 should be considered.

C) 2...17-21! And both 38-32 and 28-22 21x32 38x27 are met by 25-30! B+

2) Tactics and space.

White loses due to a lack of space to play. The natural move 30-24 fails (1.30-24 19x30 2.28x8 2x13 3.35x24 18-23 4.29x18 13x42 5.38x47 20x49 B+.

If he plays 36-31 black takes a right wing lock and white is frozen out.

1.36-31 20-24 2.29x20 15x24 3.41-36 10-14 4.27-22 18x27 5.31x22 14-20 and white is frozen out B+

3A) White uses 4 pieces to lock only 3 pieces. The lock isn't economic.

B) 1...24-30! 2.35x24 19x30

Taking more space, while moving in the other direction from the lock. Black wants to control the right flank after which white is frozen out.

The game continued:

3.40-34 30-35 4.33-29 13-19 5.38-33 8-13 6.43-38 14-20 7.31-26 20-25 8.36-31 19-24 9.29x20 25x14 10.33-29 14-20 11.38-33 13-19 12.33-28 20-25 13.28-22 17x37 14.26x17 37x26 15.27-21 16x27 16.17-11 9-14 17.11-7 14-20 18.39-33 19-24 19.33-28 24x22 20.7-1 26-31 21.1x15 31-37 22.15-47 27-31 23.34-29 31-36 24.29-23 37-41 25.23-19 41-46 26.19-13
Black should have protected piece <22> now to win: 35-40! (26...46-10? 27.47-15!=) 27.13-8 47-33 46-28!) 40-45 and black becomes dominant.

4) The game was: 1...11-17! 2.22x11 16x7 3.27x16 20-25! 4.31-27 26-31! 5.37x26 24-30 6.35x24 19x39 7.28x8 39x48 8.16-11 7x16 9.8-2 48-34 10.2-30 34-7 11.30-35 3-8 12.35x11 16x7 and black won.

5) White's pieces are better connected than the black ones. Black has already put pieces on <23 & 24>, but they are not part of any formation. White has a clear plan to control both wings. He is going to control <25 & 26> trying to freeze black out.

The game was:

1.41-37 14-19 2.40-34 8-13 3.43-39 10-14 4.31-26 2-8 5.34-30 13-18 6.37-31 9-13 7.31-27 7-12 8.33-28 6-11

White controls both wings! Black risks being frozen out. 9.39-33(?)

After 9.38-33! 11-17 (9...23-29 10.28-23 19x37 11.30x10 29x38 12.48-43 38x49 13.36-31 49x21 14.26x6 37x26 15.6-1) 10.36-31! black could not have escaped. The best defence is 9.38-33 12-17(!) 10.48-43 8-12 11.43-38 16-21 12.27x7 12x1 13.36-31 24-29! 14.33x24 18-22 15.39-33 14-20 16.24x15 23-29 17.33x24 22x42 but after 18.32-27 the endgame is pretty bad for black.

9...11-17 10.36-31 23-29 11.48-42 18-23

Black could have defended his position by playing 11...17-21! 12.26x17 12x21 13.31-26 14-20 14.26x17 20-25 15.42-37 25x34 16.27-21 16x27 17.32x21 34-39 18.33x44 29-34 =. 12.30-25 29-34 13.33-29 24x22 14.27x40 W+

6A) Black has many gaps in his position: <7, 8, 9, 13, 14>. The black pieces aren't well connected. Especially the gaps in black's Drenth-zone make his position tactically vulnerable.

B) 1.38-33! 17-22

1...1-7 2.27-22! 18x27 3.34-30 25x34 4.40x18 12x23 5.37-31 26x37 6.41x1 W+

2.36-31!! 10-14 3.41-36

3...1-7 4.37-32! 26x28 5.42-38 22x31 6.33x24 etc. W+1

7) ♡ = -2, better for white (since he has more waiting moves in this closed classical position.

8) A: White is better because of his many formations.

Chizhov – Valneris Mind Games Lille

Black has no active formations at all. White has a good centre position with lots of formations. Therefore he holds a pretty big advantage. Black has to defend precisely to hold a draw.

A)

- 1) Formations: White has many formations! All pieces are connected and white has many tails to work with. Black however has few formations.
- 2) Locks: There are no locks
- 3) Development: ♞ = 0.
White has developed all base pieces. Black's has developed his pieces also.
- 4) Strategic squares: Black occupies <22 & 23> but white can remove him from these squares if he likes. White has not taken a strategic square yet. He has a flexible position and can still decide where to go.
- 5) Weaknesses: Black has some gaps in the Drenth zone and piece <6> isn't so active. White has no base pieces, but this is compensated by having many formations in a solid construction.
- 6) Space: White has more space to play. He can go to all strategic squares still. Using his formations white can take even more space.
- 7) Tactics: Black has just played 4-10 because of the 33-28 threat, missing base piece <4> now. There aren't many tactical aspects to the position yet, but in the game tactics become crucial.

B) The most relevant feature of the position is white having more formations and space than black. We will show how this worked out in the game.

A. Baliakin – H. Meijer
29.32-28 23x32 30.37x28

Black can't play 18-23x23 due to 33-28 and he also fears to become chain-locked by 38-32-27.

30... 16-21 31.41-37

C) After 31-26 21-27 black can play a right wing attack. Without base pieces white can't successfully play against this attack.

31... 21-26

D) 32.28-23! 18x29 33.34x23 6-11 34.33-28 22x33 35.39x28 winning a piece.

32.38-32 3-9 33.43-38 14-19?

The beginning of a wrong plan. Black wants to take <23>.

34.31-27 22x31 35.36x27 18-23?

E) Watch what has changed:

- 1) White still has more formations than black has.
- 2) Still no locks.
- 3) ♞ = 4 White has taken a lead in development.
- 4) White has taken <27 & 28>, black is on <23> but he doesn't control <24>!
- 5) Black has many gaps in his position making his position vulnerable. Not controlling ,24> is also a crucial weakness.
- 6) White still has more space to play.
- 7) Because of the many gaps black's position is vulnerable for tactics. The absence of a piece on <24> brings about that white can use the 33-29 move for forcing. Black also must take care white coming in on <21> or <22>. With 27-21 or 27-22.

- 1) White lacks any formation. Black can still built formations by playing 8-12 1-7 3-8 making two forks working together.
- 2) No locks
- 3) ♡ = 8, so white is 8 temps ahead.

- 4) Black has <24> in possession and controls <23>. White has <28> but still needs a piece on <27>.
- 5) White has 4 edge pieces and black has no edge piece at all!
- 6) Because white has developed 8 temps more he has less space to play than black.
- 7) After 8-12 black threatens to play 14-20.

Black has a better, even winning, position. He has more space to play. White's edge pieces aren't active. Black can use tactics to freeze out white. In order to neutralise the 14-20 shot after 8-12, white has to play 36-31-27 or 49-43-38.

1) 1.49-43 8-12 2.43-38 18-23 3.36-31 3-9 4.31-27 9-13 and white will be frozen out soon B+

A. Tjon a Ong – J. M. Ndjofang

- 1) White has more formations than black. White has all pieces in the Drenth zone.
- 2) There are no locks, but if white transports a piece to <26> he could lock black's right wing.
- 3) ♡ = -11, white is trailing by 11 temps.
- 4) White has <28>, black has <24> and <22>.
- 5) Black misses a piece on <13> and has no base pieces left. White has no weaknesses.
- 6) White has still a lot of space. Black has also enough space. If white is able to go to <26> black's space would be reduced seriously though.
- 7) Black has to take care for shots, since he misses a piece on <13> he can't play 14-19 because of 35-30 28-23 39-

34 33x15. White can play the desired 37-31 move. Because of tactics he will be able to take a chain lock.

Tactics are decisive in this position in order for white's strategy to succeed. In an open position (without any locks) usually leading in development is cool, but in this case black could be frozen out if he is locked or blocked.

1.37-31! would have been the right move for white. He threatens to take <26> and if black plays 21-26 he responds 2.34-29! 26x37 3.42x31 10-15

It's not possible to play 3... 14-19 4.42x31 25x14 because of 5.28-23! 19x28 6.31-27 22x31 7.33x15 W+.

4.29x20 15x24 5.38-32!

Black can't prevent white from playing 32-27, creating a chain-lock, since 16-21? is punished by 6.32-27 21x23 7.33-29 24x33 8.39x10 W+. So white will take the chain lock with 32-27 with a superior position.

E. Prosman

- 1) White has the 28 / 33 / 39 tail. Black has the 6 / 11 / 17 tail, but without being able to play 13-18 this formation isn't active.
- 2) There are no locks.
- 3) ♞ = 5.
- 4) White has <27 & 28>. Black has a piece at the edge on <25>.
- 5) White's piece on <40> is dangling. Black's piece on <6> can easily get inactive.
- 6) White is able to reduce black's space to play by taking extra space himself, with the 35-30 move!
- 7) Crucial is spotting the surprising 35-30 move, to tactically freeze black out! After this move 4/9 & 4-10 can't be played!

Roy Coster

- 1) Black has no active formations. White has the active 33 / 38 / 42 tail, making the 33-29x29 exchange possible.
- 2) Black's right wing is locked. 4 Pieces are locking 5 pieces, so the lock is economic. Black has no pieces behind the lock (on <1, 2, 7, 12> however, which would make the lock even worse for black.
- 3) ♞ = 0
- 4) White occupies strategic square <27>, black has <23 & 24>.
- 5) Both players have no weaknesses.
- 6) Due to the lock black's space is limited. White can create more space by changing 33-29x29.
- 7) Because of the lock, white has to take care for tactics. He has to spot that 37-31? can be met by a shot.

White's position is much better, since black is bothered by a lack of space.

In the game white changed immediately:

1.33-29 24x33 2.38x29 18-22 3.27x18 23x12
White still has an advantage, but it turns out that waiting with the 33-29 exchange is even better:

Black to play

E. Prosman – K. Bor

- 8) White has a fork at the left flank and can still build several formations at the other wing. Black can try to make a formation at the right flank by playing 13-19 (creating the 14 / 19 / 23 tail) or 14-19 (creating 19/23). Black's formations at the left flank aren't active, since his right wing is locked.
- 9) White has fork-locked his opponent. 6 pieces are needed to lock 8 pieces, so the lock is economic.
- 10) ♣ = -3
- 11) Black has <23>, white controls <27>.
- 12) Black's weakness is that he has left few pieces that are not locked. He risks being frozen out.
- 13) Black is locked and therefore has limited space to play. White can still play at both wings. At the left wing he will play 37-32 and 41-37.
- 14) Black can't activate piece <8> by 13-19 (and 8-13) because of a kingshot with 26-21 & 37-32.

White is much better because of the economic fork-lock; black risks being frozen out.

Strategy & Calculation 2

W. v.d. Sluis – T. Sijbrands

Black didn't play 2 – 8 in this position, but preferred 3 – 8!
In classical games you usually don't play the golden piece so early in the game.

1) Why is 3 – 8 fine in this position?

The game was 17...3-8 18.41-36 17-22
19.28x17 11x31 20.36x27.

2) Often black continues with 12 – 17 attacking <27> again. But black has another attractive continuation! Which one?

Strategic games

1) Draw the diagrams and make comments on black's strategy.

Judging positions

1) M. Janssen – R. Boomstra

Black has a very strong centre position with many formations. He controls <23 & 24>. White controls <27> but can't get <28> under control. 37 – 32 and 38 – 32 are not possible. In the game white played 1.49 – 44, building a formation and threatening with a coup Philippe 26 – 21 27 – 22 33 – 29. Black replied 1...24 – 30! A move we know from S2.3 The strong piece at <21>. Black threatens to take the kingshot with 23 – 29 & 14 – 20, while 2.33 – 29 is punished by 14 – 20! etc. B+ and after 2.44 – 40 30 – 35! white is lost, since after capturing always 23 – 29 will follow.

Other moves will not help white either:

- 1.27 – 21 is simply met by 23 – 28 B+1.
- 1.37 – 31 is answered by 11 - 16 2.49 – 43 23 – 29 3.34 x 23 18 x 29 4.27 – 22 17 x 28 5.33 x 22 29 – 34 6.39 x 30 24 x 35 with a breakthrough.
- 1.49 – 43 is the best but after 17 – 22! 2.37 – 32 22 x 31 3.26 x 37 11 – 16! 4.32 – 27 23 – 28! 5.33 x 22 14 – 20 6.25 x 23 18 x 40 black has a nice breakthrough.

2) A. Georgiev – W. Chogoliev

White has launched a strong left wing attack. His own right wing is protected by 44 / 45 / 50. Especially the piece on <50> is a strong defender. Black's right wing isn't protected well. White aims his arrows at this wing. The game was 37...12-18 38.22-17 Paul Oudshoorn showed an even better plan for white in order to force a breakthrough: 38.32-27! 3-8 (38...19-24 39.22-17 13-19 40.21-16 etc. W+) 39.21-17 23-29 40.31-26 18-23 41.26-21 29-33 42.21-16 8-12 (42...30-34 43.16-11 33-39 44.44x33 8-12 45.17x8 6x39 46.8-3 25-30 47.3-25 30-35 48.27-22 35-40 49.25-30 34x25 50.45x43 W+) 43.17x8 13x2 44.22-17 2-7 45.16-11 7x16 46.17-12 W+. 3) A. Gantwarg – Dramaretski

White has an active position with many formations. White removes piece <23> first preparing an attack at the left wing.

29.34-29 23x34 30.40x29 20-25 31.29x20 15x24 32.27-21 16x27 33.31x22 18x27 34.32x21 8-12 35.36-31 13-18 36.31-27 18-23 37.38-32 12-18 38.43-38 6-11 39.44-40 9-13 40.28-22 11-16 41.21-17 4-9 42.17-11 7-12 43.11-6 23-28 44.32x23 19x17 45.6-1 14-19 46.27-22 18x27 47.1x15 17-21 48.26x17 27-31 49.15-10 9-14 50.10-5 31-36 51.33-29 W+

4) T. Sijbrands – W. v.d. Sluis 1970

White is better: he can break the classical structure. First he launches an attack with his cannon, removing piece 18 (which is guarding centre square <23>. After black changes piece <22> he puts pressure on <24>.

5) T. Sijbrands – B. Ba (training)

White has a strong centre with a cannon and the right formations at his right wing.

He can choose from two plans:

- 30.33-29! 24x33 31.38x29 19-23 32.43-38 23x34 33.30x39
- 30.40-34 18-23 31.33-28 17-21 32.34-29 24x22 33.27x29

In both cases white holds an advantage.

6) A. Baliakin – Markevics

White has a strong power block, putting pressure on <24>. Black has no proper defence. The game was 28...8-12 29.34-29 23x34 30.40x20 15x24 31.27-22 18x27 32.37-31 26x37 33.42x22 3-8 34.45-40 21-26 35.40-34 6-11 36.36-31 26x37 37.32x41 12-17 38.22-18 13x22 W+

28...7-12 is met by 29.34-29! 23x34 30.40x20 15x24 31.28-23 19x39 32.30x10 9-14 33.10x19 13x24 34.37-31! 26x28 35.38-33 21x32 36.33x2 39-44 37.2x30 44-50 38.42-37 32x41 39.36x47 12-17 40.30-13 with a winning endgame for white as shown in the course (see the power block).

7) T. Sijbrands – Hisard 1968

White has a solid centre position with many formations and controls the left wing. Black's right wing is weakened. This wing will be the target for a future attack. Black is ready to change 24 – 20 x 30 x 23 but this exchange isn't so strong here. White simply plays 40 – 35, removing black from the centre. After this he starts a crushing attack at the left wing.

Watch Sijbrands' great technique:

8) J. Bom – T. Sijbrands 1989

White has a weak piece at <46>. This piece isn't active. Black can play against this wing with the pieces 16 / 21 / 26. At the other wing, black has an initiative. This gives him the opportunity to play against white's weak left wing. Black breaks open the position playing 24-30x29x30 and in the end white is frozen out completely.

Strategy: Which move would you play?

1) A. Shaibakov – T. v.d. Broek

1.27-21! 16x27 2.32x21

White puts a strong piece at <21> getting control over the left wing. The game was; 2...9-14 3.37-32 26-31 4.21-16 31-36 5.42-37 4-9 6.48-42 14-20 7.34-29 10-14 8.49-43 18-22 9.29-23 13-19 10.40-34 22-27 11.32x21

17x26 12.34-29 9-13 13.38-32 25-30 14.32-27 2-7 White could have made a king shot with 15.27 – 21! 26 x 17 16.37 – 31 36 x 27 17.23 – 18 and 28 – 23 or 29 – 23 etc. White won the game after 15.37-32.

2) T. Sijbrands – F. Gordijn 1973

You could play 34 – 29 23 x 34 40 x 20 14 x 25 33 – 29, but Sijbrands wants to eliminate the piece in the centre, piece <18>, first. Therefore he uses his cannon, playing 27.27-22 18x27 28.31x22 and after 11-17 29.22x11 16x7 white breaks the classical structure in order to get strong centre play: 30.34-29 23x34 31.40x20 14x25 32.33-29 7-12 33.43-39 1-7 34.38-33 19-24 35.29x20 25x14 36.42-38 6-11 37.36-31 13-18 38.45-40 9-13 39.31-27 3-9 40.40-34 11-17? 41.27-21! and black resigned.

3) F. Gordijn – T. Sijbrands 1965

30.34-29 24x33 31.38x29

White takes the 27 / 29 bond, since black has no formations to challenge the bond. White gets active at the right wing.

If black plays 31...13 – 19 white keeps playing in the direction of the right wing: 32.32 – 28 8 – 13 33.37 – 32 (threatening 29 – 23 & 27 – 21) 20 – 25 42 – 38 3 – 8 34.39 – 33 etc.

If black plays 31...20 – 25 32.42 – 38 11 – 17 white can go to <24>: 33.29 – 24 since 17 –

Strategy & Calculation 1

1) White has a solid, central position with many formations. He controls the centre squares <28 & 29>. He doesn't control <27> yet, but white can still go there in the future (as happened in the game). Black's position is more passive. He doesn't control the centre squares. He can take <24> but after changing 19 – 24 x 24 white will attack the piece on <24> and black loses control over this strategic square again.

2) 34...21-27 35.32x21! 16x36 36.47-41 36x47 37.38-32 47x29 38.34x1 W+

3) White has to attack <24> by playing 34 – 29 and after 6 – 11 29 x 20 19 – 23 28 x 19 13 x 15 continue his centre play. If white doesn't play 34 – 29, black plays 18 – 23 with a closed classical game, and white has no advantage.

4) White controls all strategic squares (27, 28 & 24>. Although white hasn't got a piece on <28> yet, he does control this square already.

Strategy & Calculation 2

1) Black wants to break the classical structure and attack. Playing 3 – 8 black plays more pieces in the direction of the attacked wing.

2) Since there is no piece on <33>, black attacked immediately by playing 23 – 28 32 x 23 19 x 28!

Strategic games

D. van Schaik – K. Thijssen

Praag, 12-06-2012

Black built a central pyramid while also occupying <25>. Black's centre is too strong for white to be able to take advantage of the 23 / 25 bond. Black now puts another piece in the centre on <22>.

If piece <41> was on <33> the position would be symmetrical. Black has a stronger centre in reality. 20.36 – 31? would lose due to the forcing 20...24 – 29!, with the threat of 29 – 33 17 – 21 11 x 24 B+1. 20.37 – 31 24 – 29 is also unpleasant since white has to flee to the edge with 27 – 21 etc. Therefore white makes an exchange playing 20.34 – 30 25 x 34 21.40 x 20 and black takes 21...14 x 25, keeping the right wing under control. After this exchange white can't play 35 – 30 x 30, since black wins two pieces with the ping pong shot (17 – 21!).

Black built a solid position again with many formations. Now he takes <22>. After white takes back <28> by changing 33 – 28 x 28, black gets space at the right wing. He will start an attack at this wing.

Black starts the attack with the excellent 25 – 30! 35 x 24 20 x 29 taking care that piece <42> won't get into play (after 20 – 24 white can play 38 – 33 and 42 – 38, activating piece 42). White's space to play is reduced severely from now on.

With the 16 – 21 x 21 exchange black takes the left wing under control too. White can't go to <31> anymore (21 – 27!) and his space to play is reduced even more.

Black is patient. He doesn't play 23 – 29 immediately, since white would get too much space at his left wing again: e.g. 36 – 31 21 – 26 31 – 27 6 – 11 is punished by 27 – 21! 26 x 17 28 – 23 29 x 27 32 x 1 W+. Black instead plays 38...8 – 12! after which 22 – 17 would be met by 21 – 27 B+.

After 41.21 – 26 white will be frozen out or has to allow a breakthrough. In the game he breaks through after 42.32 – 27 29 – 34 etc. but white was already lost. After 42.31 – 27 12 – 18 43.44 – 40 20 – 25 44.40 – 34 29 x 40 45.35 x 44 24 – 29! white is frozen out. Notice that piece <42> still isn't active!

A. Chizhov - N. Shestakova
Thailand 2012

White plays 31 – 26 in order to develop his left wing.

After the sacrifice black has to return the piece and white gets a good centre position.

The 27 / 29 bond is good. Black has no formations to challenge this bond. Black's pieces <6, 11, 16, 17> are not active. White is going to build a pyramid with top on <29>.

The pyramid is built and white has to make a decision again. Attacking 28.29 – 23 18 x 29 29.34 x 23 9 – 14 30.33 – 28 17 – 21 isn't so strong, since white can't go on playing 31.27 – 22 because of 31...13 – 18! 32.22 x 2 20 – 25 33.2 x 30 25 x 45 B+. The more patient 28.34 – 30 weakens the black centre, hitting on <13>.

White takes his favourite 27 / 29 bond again, taking more space.

Closing <17> with 35...11 – 17? is weak, since white can take a chain lock now.

White changes and takes <29>, breaking black's centre.

Black is frozen out, so she resigned.

White changes 34 – 29 x 30, breaking black's centre again.

A. Chizhov – N. Varlamov
Russian champ. 2006

White takes centre square <28>, while developing his left wing. Pieces <46 & 41> come into play.

The French would say: L'histoire se répète. (history is repeated). White weakens the black centre once more...

Changing 30 – 24 x 34 loses 4 temps. White was leading 6 temps (Dirod = 6), so he can afford to change back, weakening black's centre one more time.

This time white changes 32 – 28 x 28, taking the centre and building the central pyramid.

White changes 34 – 29 x 30 (where did we see this exchange before?), blowing away black's centre. The pieces on black's right wing <6, 11, 16, 17> aren't active. Often these pieces have no other destination than the edge of the board (17 – 21 – 26 etc.)

White forces the gain of a piece now using his strong formations. Other moves than 17 – 21 would also have lost:

1) 39...8-12 40.31-26 and black has no good move left!

2) 39...16-21 40.30-25 11-16 41.35-30 24x35 42.25-20 14x25 43.28-22 17x28 44.32x12 25-30 45.33-29 35-40 46.29-24 30x19 47.39-34 40x29 48.12-7 29-34 9.7-2 19-23 50.2-7 23-29 51.31-26 W+

Judging positions

1) White has a nice podkowa. There are weaknesses in black's centre: the Drenth-zone is poorly occupied. If white controls both wings, he has a sound surrounding strategy. In order to control the wings, he should start by playing 30-25. If white plays 31-27 too fast, black can take control over the right wing and eventually take over <24>: 1.31-27? 22x31 2.36x27 20-25! and white's right wing is locked. Black's plan goes 14-20 4-10-15 and 20-24x24. Therefore white should play 30-25, (without any fear for 1...19-24? due to 2.34-30! 23x43 3.30x10 4x15) with a good game, for example: 1.30-25 4-10 2.31-27 22x31 3.36x27 10-15 4.46-41 2-8 5.33-28 6-11 6.39-33, with white having a big advantage.

2) This is the famous Woldouby position. It is covered in the section on classics in part II of ACID. White to move has problems to make a draw. He is frozen out after 1.34-29 23x34 2.30x39 18-23 3.39-34? 13-18 (4.34-30 12-17) and black has a winning position. Only 3.27-22! gives white the chance to escape from losing, as you can read in ACID 2.

3) White shouldn't play 1.39-34? 12-17 2.47-42? Since black plays (as in Ricou – Garoutte) 2...24-29! 3.33x24 17-22 4.28x17 21x12 5.24-20 14x25 6.34-29 25x34 7.29x40 19-24 8.40-34 24-29 and black wins (see ACID 2 on classics). After 1.47-41 12-17 2.41-36 17-22 3.28x17 21x12 4.33-28 12-17 however, white has a famous winning position, Ricou – Bonnard: 5.39-34! 24-29 (5...16-21 6.27x16 18-22 7.34-29 24x31 8.36x20, 5...17-21 6.38-33) 6.30-25 29x40 7.35x44 16-21 8.27x16 18-22 9.25-20 22x31 10.20x29 W+

4) Black has a weak piece on <10>, the piece is dangling. White still has the opportunity to build the Olympic formation: 1.43-39 activates the Coup Royal threat 27-22 etc. Even after 1...3-9 white can take the Coup Royal 2.27-22 18x27 3.32x21 23x34 4.40x20 26x17 5.20-15! W+

5) White has several advantages:

- Black has a weak piece at 15, it is staying behind.
- White trails 5 temps in development.
- White can take a Ghestem-lock playing 1.28-22!! and deactivate black's formations at the right wing. Piece <22> can't be exchanged easily either. After 11-17x17 piece <12> is dangling.

6) A. Cordier – P. Chmiel

White's position is much more flexible than the black one: he has more possibilities. White can play 33-28 or 33-29x29, in both cases having the best chances. If white plays 33-28 he wants a Ghestem-lock later. With 33-29x29, white goes for podkowa play.

7) T. Goedemoed – R. v.d. Beek

White is ready for an attack at the left wing, playing 28-22x22, e.g. 1...11-16 2.28-22! 17x28 3.33x22 12-17 4.22x11 16x7 5.27-22! 20-25 6.26-21 with a big advantage. Black can't stop this by playing 1...24-29? 2.33x24 20x29 because of 3.39-33! 14-20 4.33x24 20x29 5.40-34 29x40 6.45x34 (threatening 28-22, 34-29) 9-14 7.38-33 14-20* 8.43-38 20-24 9.35-30! 24x35 10.33-29 12-18 11.27-21 8-12 12.28-22 18x16 13.29x9 W+

8) F. Veltman – G. Heerema

After 1.35-30! black must take care: 1...17-22? (1...7-12? 2.30-24! 19x30 3.32-27 21x32 4.37x19 13x15 5.38-32 26x28 6.33x2, 1...9-14 2.20x9 3x14 is better for white) 2.30-24 19x30 3.32-27 21x32 4.37x19 13x15 5.39-34 30x28 6.43-39 26x37 7.41x1 W+ Black should play 9-14x14.

Which move would you play?

1) White can perform a forcing: 1.33-28! 13-19 2.39-33 (threatening to play 30-24) 20-24 3.28-22! 8-13 4.32-28! 23x21 5.33-28 18x27 6.28-23 19x28 7.30x6 W+

2) White should defend with 1.42-38 since 1.28-22? is punished by 1...23-29! 2.34x12 14-20 3.25x23 11-17 4.22x11 16x47 5.27x16 47-33 B+. 1...11-17 2.34-30 23-29 (2...21-26 3.27-21 16x27 4.32x12 23x43 5.12x23 19x39 6.30x10 leads to a draw) 3.28-23 19x37 4.30x10 21x43 5.33x24 and white must fight for a draw.

3) M. Camara – J.M. Ndjofang

1...21-27! 2.32x21 26x17 Black weakens the white centre, with a strong podkowa: 3.37-32? (3.38-32 17-21 4.48-43 18-23 5.36-31 also loses due to 23-29! 6.43-38 21-27 7.31x22 19-23 8.28x30 25x43 9.33x24 43-48 B+, 3.48-43 is the best defense: 18-22 4.28-23! 19x28 5.37-31 17-21 6.31-27 22x31 7.36x27 21x32 8.38x27 28-32 9.27x38 16-21 10.38-32 but is better for black) 3...18-22! and since 32-27x27 is punished by 19-23, white can't resist the 24-29 threat and loses.

4) White can force the win: 1.33-29! 24x33 (1...23x34 2.40x20 10-15 3.27-22 15x24 4.32-28 18x27 5.28-23 19x28 6.30x10 4x15 7.37-31

5) White has to take care not to fall victim to a shot. 1.48-43 (1.41-37 13-18 2.39-33 12-17 3.37-31 26x37 4.42x31 9-13 is better for black and 1.30-25? loses due to the shot 24-30! 2.25x34 23-29 3.34x23 16-21 4.27x18 13x44 5.40x49 19x46 B+) 1...13-18 2.39-33 9-13 3.41-36 (3.30-25? 24-29! 4.33x24 19x30 5.28x17 11x31 6.35x24 31-37 7.42x31 26x46 B+) 3...12-17 4.43-39 17-21 5.30-25 (5.42-37? 24-29! 6.33x24 26-31 7.37x17 11x42 B+) 5...11-17 6.42-37=

6) J.P. Drost

White can force a win by freezing out black. 1.30-24! 14-19 2.47-41 (2.25-20 19x30 3.20-14 16-21 4.27x16 18-22=) 2...19x30 3.25x34 15-20 4.34-30 20-25 5.39-34 13-19 6.33-29 W+

7) Black can profit from the weakness at <42>. 1...18-22! (Threatening to play 24-29) 2.32-27 25-30 3.27x18 12x32 4.38x27 30-34 Infiltrating white's position with a strong outpost. 5.33-28 (5.31-26 8-12 6.43-38 13-18 7.38-32 9-14 8.36-31 19-23 9.27-21 24-30 10.35x24 34-40 11.45x34 23-29 12.34x23 18x36 B+) 5...7-11 6.16x7 8-12 7.7x18 13x33 B+

Strategy & Calculation

1A) White has a semi-fork, which is often used to create a podkowa by playing 31-26x27 at the right moment. Black holds <23> but has lost control over <24>. Black lacks pieces on <12 & 14> to have a central pyramid. Now his centre is a bit weak.

B) White wants to surround the black position by playing 38-32 & 31-26x27. Black should prevent white from playing 38-32, so he should play 1...6-11! If white changes 2.31-26 22x31 3.36x27, he can attack immediately by playing 3...17-22! and white is driven away from <27>.

C) 2.31-26! 21x32 3.38x27 22x31 4.36x27 20-25* 5.29-24 3-8 6.48-42 and black has no good move left.

D) 6...17-21! 7.26x17 23-28 8.33x22 19-24 9.30x8 3x43 10.22x13 43-48 B+

E) 10...3-9! with four possibilities:

- 1) After 11.31-27 23-28 12.32x3 21x43 black can hold a draw.
- 2) 11.31-26 21-27 12.32x21 23-28 13.33x22 18x16 =
- 3) 11.33-28?? 21-27 B+
- 4) 11.29-24 18-22 (or even the surprising sacrifice 21-27 12.31x22 18x27 13.32x21 9-14! 14.33-29 14-20 etc. =) 12.31-26 22-27 13.26x17 9-14 14.32x21 23-29 15.34x23 19x39 =

2A) 1.44-39? isn't good because of 17-22! 2.28x17 12x21 and now:

- 1) 3.33-28 21-26! 4.47-42 26x37 5.42x31 18-22 6.27x29 24x44
 - 2) 3.31-26 23-28! 4.32x12 21x34 5.40x29 8x17
- The best move is 1.49-43!, closing <43>. After 1...17-22 2.28x17 12x21, white can even play 3.31-26, since black has no waiting move to take a kingshot with 23-28 13-18 19x50. The kingshot 3.31-26 23-29 4.26x17 24-30 5.35x12 13-18 6.12x23 19x50 leads to equality after 6.46-41 50x11 7.32-28 11x42 8.47x38 =, but white can also play 3.47-42, but not 3.33-28 for in that case black plays the annoying 23-29!

B) Usually it is clever to take backwards in a classical game, leaving more waiting moves and keeping the possibility to build the Olympic formation 6/11. But in this case black can exploit the weakness of <39> by taking forwards.

C) Black threatens to play 24-30! and 17-22. White can't close both <37 & 39>. He can't change piece <29> either: 4.40-34 29x40 5.45x34 is simply met by 5...24-30 B+.

D) 3...12-18! threatening to play 17-22 28x17 23-28 32x12 13-18 12x23 19x50 while 4.44-39 is met by 4...18-22!, taking a chain-lock. White can't do anything to stop the 24-29 threat.

3A) White controls both wings. Black risks being frozen out since he has a lack of space to play.

B) 1.48-42! (1.27-21? 7-12 2.48-42 29-34! 3.30x39 18-22 =) 1...4-9 (1...4-10? 2.27-21! 7-12 3.43-38 10-15 4.21-16 W+, 1...7-11? 2.42-38! W+) 2.27-21 7-12 3.43-38 and black is tactically frozen out: 18-22 4.30-24! 22x33 5.21-16 etc. W+

4A) Black removes the strong pieces on <27 & 28>. White can take back <28> after the exchange, but he loses control over <27>, giving black a good podkowa strategy.

B) This natural move (black wants to take <24> anyway) brings about that white can't build up with 38-32 (in order to reinforce the left wing), for then a king shot with 14-20 13-18 follows.

C) 9...18-23 10.25-20 14x25 11.28-22 24-30 12.35x24 19x30 13.40-34 15-20 14.33-29=

D) 14...9-13!! (14...15-20 15.33-29 24x33 16.28x39 18-23 17.39-33!=) 15.34-29 (15.34-30 22-27 B+) 15...15-20 16.40-34 22-27 B+

6A) White has put his pieces around the black centre, trying to freeze black out with the podkowa strategy.

B) 1.25-20! 14x25 2.35-30 17-21 3.31-26 22x31 4.36x27 12-17 5.29-24 8-12 6.33-29 etc. W+

Classics – wing control

1A) T. Goedemoed – K. Posthumus

White controls both wings, helped by tactics.
 After 31-27! white has a lack of space and risks being frozen out (tactically). Dirod = -3, so white has more waiting moves.

B) 1... 23-29 2.32-28 29x38 3.39-33 38x29
 4.28-23 19x28 5.30x10 W+

C) After 5.33-28! black will be frozen out. 5... 24-29 is met by 6.30-24 etc. W+.
 5... 16-21 6.27x16 18-22 is punished by 7.32-27! 23x21 8.16x29 W+ and 5... 17-21 6.47-42 21-26 7.42-37 doesn't help either.

D) 5.33-28! 20-25 6.47-42 11-17 7.42-38! and black is frozen out tactically:

- 7... 24-29 8.49-43! 29x40 9.35x44 25x34 10.27-22 18x27 11.32x12 23x32 12.38x27 W+

2) C. de Jong – W. Ankersmit

The winning strategy is 1...4-9 2.43-39 14-20 3.25x14 9x20 Taking the right wing (from white's perspective) under control.
4.39-34 20-25 Threatening 24-30 +.

S4. The right wing attack

Darya Tkachenko crowned world champion

The right wing attack is a very important type of game you should be able to use. Playing an attack can give good chances to win a game strategically. Sometimes you win by breaking through to king earlier than the opponent, or you can win by freezing out the opponent. If you play an attack or play against an attack, you should also know the strategies for playing against the attack. Making the exercises will teach you more about these strategies, so you can recognize and use them in your own games.

Strategy & Calculation

White has a strong right wing attack.

1A) Explain why the attack is so strong.

B) Which is the winning move for white to play? Show the winning line.

R. Clerc – J. v.d. Wal

1.31-26 21-27 2.32x21 16x27
3.37-31 17-22 4.42-38

Draw the position in the empty diagram:

4...1-7?

It was better to play 4...11-17 5.38-33 23-28
6.49-44 1-7

2A) Why can't white continue with 7.44-40?

5.38-33 23-28?

B) Which kingshot did white take now?

B. Bies – R. Clerc

3A) Describe the relevant features of this position in order to judge the position. Black is to move!

29...13-19 30.24x13 9x18

B) Why does black make this exchange?

31.40-35 2-7 32.47-41

C) How would you judge this last move?

32...21-27 33.38-32 27x38
34.43x32 16-21 35.49-43

Draw the position in the empty diagram:

D) Try to show a line in which white is frozen out.

A. Scholma – K. Thijssen
Black to move

4A) Try to judge this position!

21...14-20

White can make an exchange now after which he has a slightly better (more central and active) position.

B) How does this exchange go?

White wasn't satisfied with a small advantage and kept his right wing attack on the board.

22.32-28 20x29 23.33x24 10-14
24.36-31 4-10 25.34-29

Draw the position in the empty diagram:

40...3-9

E) White could have taken a kingshot now. How?

41.23-18 12x23 42.29x18 20-24

White could have taken the same king shot again. In time trouble the game was eventually drawn.

White should have been alarmed after 24...4-10. But he wasn't sharp and concentrated. Since it was the last round of a tournament (Heerhugowaard 2012) he must have been quite fatigued... Under these circumstances thing can go horribly wrong.

25...17-22 26.28x17 12x32 27.37x28?

White should have taken the 38x27 capture.

C) If 7.38x27 8-12 8.39-33 3-9 9.43-39 2-7 is played, white has a hidden defence. Try to find how white should continue.

D) Which strong move did black play now? Why is it so strong?

A. Shaibakov – W. Sipma

30.49-43?

5A) Why is this move wrong?

30.49-43? 6-11 31.43-38 14-19 32.40-35 19x30 33.35x24 12-18 34.32-28 11-17

B) White has no good move left. How does black win after 35.39-33?

K. Thijssen – R. Kloosterman

20.33-28 23x32 21.37x17 11x22?

Better was 21...12x21! 22.26x17 11x22 and the outpost is safe.

6A) Why can't white (in this line) play 23.41-37 7-11 24.37-32?

22.41-37 7-11 23.37-32 11-16 24.32x21 16x27 25.42-37 6-11 26.47-41 2-7

White brings the 37 x 6 capture in play. If white plays 27.39-33 he threatens to play 34-30 43-39 37x6. Black has to defend with 27...12-17. After 28.37-32 8-12 29.32x21 22-28 30.33x22 18x16 31.37-32 white has a better position.

B) Why is the position after 31.37-32 better for white?

27.44-40! 14-19 28.39-33

Another good plan is 28.38-33! (preparing 43-38 with the 34-30 threat)

C) How does black lose a piece if 28.38-33 is answered by 11-16?

We look at the position after 28.38-33 19-23 29.43-38.

D) How does white win after 29...12-17?

After 29...23-28 white can take a breakthrough shot with 30.34-30 25x32 31.40-35 28x39 32.37x6 but the remaining position isn't so clear. White can also play another move instead of 30.34-30.

E) What strong move?

F. Andriessen – A. Ivanov

The game went:

28...11-16(!) 29.26-21 27-32 30.37x17 16x27
31.31x22 12x21 32.43-39 18x27 33.38-32
27x29 34.34x14 7-12 35.39-34 13-19

35...3-9 36.14x3 12-17 37.3x12 was a better defence.

36.14x23 8-13 37.34-30 25x34 38.40x29
and white won.

M. Koopmanschap – A. Gantwarg

7) White plays against a right wing attack of his strong opponent. He has to take care black doesn't get all strategic squares in possession. How can white prevent this using tactics?

8) Try to calculate whether white has to continue with 42-37 or 44-40.

9) Try to find the best move for white. Can you compose a line which is logical from this position?

Strategy

1) Black to move. White has a right wing attack. Black chose a very strong strategy to play against the attack. Try to find the best plan for black.

Take your time!

4) White to move. What strategy should he follow playing against the attack?

2) Black to move. What's his best plan? Show a variation (line of moves) in which black's strategy is working well.

5) White to move. What will be your strategy?

3) Black to move. Which plan should he follow?

Strategy & Calculation

1A) White controls the strategic squares
<24, 27 & 28>. White has a strong central pyramid. Black has no good formations to play against white's right wing attack.

B) 1.33-29! 14-19 2.28-22! 19x30 3.29-24
30x19 4.27-21 26x28 5.32x3 W+.

9.39x50 28x30 10.25x34 19-24 with a big advantage for black who has a strong right wing attack. White should continue with 7.47-42.

white won. White could have chosen 17.6-1
23-45 18.1x34 45x38 19.48-42 W+.

3A) White has an attacking position with two outposts on <23 & 24>. White also controls centre square <28>. White has a lead in development (♞=4) and enough formations.
Black however also has nice formation to play against the attack. In the Drenth-zone only <8> is missing. At his right wing black has control over <27> and may have possibilities for a counter attack. Black can also hope for a freeze-out of white. Since both players have quite good positions the position can be judged
as equal.

B) Black removes a strong outpost, while putting a piece at <18> helping the counter attack at white's left wing. White can go to <24> again though and this seems a logical plan. Black can use the time this takes, to reinforce his right wing counter attack. He could also have tried to block the right wing with 40-35 5-10 35-30 14-20 30-24 10-15.

C) 32.47-41? looks bad, since it creates a dangling piece on <41>.

4A) White has a right wing attack without severe weaknesses. White has also control over <27 & 28>. Black has a solid position with formations, but it is hard to see a good plan for black. So, it looks like white has a good attack.

B) 22.33-28 20x29 23.34x23 18x29 24.28-22 17x28 25.32x34

D) 27...11-17! Threatening to make the breakthrough shot 17-22 8-12 14x45. White can't play 28-23 of course. If white plays 40-34 or 39-34 black attacks the outpost with 14-19, for example: 11.39-34 14-19 12.43-39 19x30 13.40-35 10-14 14.35x24 14-19 and 44-40-35 is met by 18-22 35x24 22x44 so white loses a piece.

5A) Piece <49> should defend the outpost. Moreover, square 44 must be occupied if white goes to centre-square <28>, to eliminate shots with 16-21 6-11 13x....

7) In order to prevent black from taking <24> white should play 1.33-29!! Black can't play 28-33 because of 2.39x28 23x41 3.36x47 27x36 4.47-41! 36x47 5.26-21 47x24 6.21x23 19x28 7.30x10 W+.

Black has to answer 1.33-29 with 20-25 and by playing 38-32x32 white gets an equal position. In the game white lost control over <24> and lost: 1.30-25? 8-12 2.37-32 28x37 3.31x42 20-24 4.34-29 23x34 5.39x30 27-32! 6.38x27 22x31 7.36x27 14-20 8.25x23 18x47 9.30x19 B+.

Strategy

1) R. Heusdens – K. Thijssen

Black performs a long, strong strategy in which the outpost is attacked several times and centre piece <28> is exchanged. Black then uses the Raichenbach manoeuvre in order to create a breakthrough.

17...21-26! 18.32x21 26x17

Black can organize a breakthrough now and with some patience he should be able to win. In the game white escaped with a draw.

2) H. de Waard – F. Fennema

27...7-11! Black tries to block the attack. 28.40-35 9-14 29.45-40 is met by the special move 22-27! 30.31x22 18x27 and white is completely blocked, for example 31.49-44 14-19 32.35-30 12-18 33.40-35 17-22! 34.28x17* 21x12 35.32x21 16x27 etc. B+.

28.31-27 22x31 29.26x37 After 29.36x27 9-14 white has little space, he can't go to <23> (28-23? 13-19!) 30.40-35 17-22 31.28x17 11x31 32.26x37 18-22 33.32-28 21-27 34.28x17 12x21 gives black an advantage.

5) A. Gantwarg – W. Virny

White plays 30-25 & 41-37 with the plan of removing black's centre pieces <23 & 28> by changing 34-29x30x33 and after that white can attack the outpost on <27>.

The game was:

 White could have won a piece now by playing 39.35-30 19-23 40.40-34 W+1 but he played differently and missed good chances to win the game.

6) V. Agafonov – T. Sijbrands

Black wants to isolate the white outpost, since it isn't backed by a strong centre.

38.38-32 22-28! Taking more space.

39.32-27 17-22

The fork-lock doesn't bother black, since he has much more space. Judging positions

1) L. Geurts – M. Sochненко

Black has all strategic squares under control. Usually this means that black has a good attacking position. There are no big weaknesses in his position, except the gap on <13>. As a matter of fact black is tactically frozen out. Black doesn't have a single good move left:

- 1...3-8 or 1...3-9 is met by the 25-20 39-34 kingshot.
- 1...17-21 2.31-26 W+
- 1...23-29 2.39-34 28x30 3.25x14 W+
- 1...28-32 2.25-20 32x34 3.20x18 22x13 4.31x11 W+

Black's position is lost.

2) M. Hisard – T. Sijbrands

Black has a solid position, controlling the centre and having outposts at <27 & 28>. White can't do anything against the attack. As a matter of fact white has few moves left. He has to give up control over <24>, since 24-20 is his only move:

1.24-20

- 1.39-34? 28-33! 2.29x38 22-28 3.31x33 13-19 4.24x22 17x46 B+

- 1.41-37? 13-19 2.24x13 18x9 3.29-24 10-15 B+
- 1.42-37? creates a dangling piece at <41> so it isn't a serious move: 10-15 2.39-34 14-19 3.34-30 19-23 leaves white with no good move.
- 1.42-38? of course isn't possible because of the simple 28-33 2.39x28 22x42 3.31x22 18x27 B+

1...13-19 2.20x9 3x14

☹ = -7, black has much more space. In the game white was trapped after 3.29-24? 3.39-34 18-23 4.29x18 12x23 5.34-30 10-15 with a strong attack for black.
3...19x30 4.25x34 28-33! 5.39x28 22x33 6.31x13 33-39 7.44x33 12-18 8.13x22 17x46 B+

3) M. van IJzendoorn – R. Boomstra

White has a right wing attack with outposts at <23 & 24>. White has weak pieces at 35 & 40, while piece <50> isn't centralized yet either. Black can play against the attack because of these weak pieces. So black is better. In order to keep enough space, black should change 14-19x9 first.

1 ...14-19 2.23x14 20x9 3.38-33

3.28-23 is met by 11-16! (threatening 27-31 & 17-21) 4.37-32 9-14 5.32x21 16x27 6.50-44 14-20 7.44-39 17-21 8.26x17 12x21 9.23x12 8x17 10.39-33 17-22 and white's attack is blocked: 11.38-32 27x38 12.33x42 21-26 13.42-37 22-27 etc. B+

3...27-32 4.28-23 32x41 5.36x47 17-22 6.35-30

In the game black played 6...9-14 but we look at a more logical continuation, taking advantage of the weak white left wing with by making a strong counter-attack: 6...11-17 (black can also begin with 22-27) 7.40-35 22-27 8.50-44

8.24-19 13x24 9.30x19 loses after 15-20

4) White has all strategic squares under control, but his position is still worse. The reason is that white lacks space to play. He can't play 28-23 because of 17-22 23x12 22x42 38x47 21-27 32x21 26x8 B+1.

The Sijbrands – Dankers (blindfold) game went: 1.40-35 9-14 2.35-30 4-10?

After this move white gets a better endgame, playing 4.24-19 13x35 5.28-22 17x28 6.33x13 +/-. Black should have played 2...14-19! and after 3.28-23 19x28 4.33x11 16x7 5.27x16 18-22 white has a piece more, but black has still a better position, white's position is blocked: 6.39-33 13-18 7.32-28 18-23 8.29x27 20x40 9.27-22 25x34 10.22-17 -/+

5) H. Verdoolaege – P. Meurs

White's attack is blocked. He has not enough space to play. He was frozen out by the young Dutch grandmaster. 18.49-43 7-11 19.40-34 14-20 20.44-40 10-14 21.40-35

White sacrificed a piece with 32.31-27 21x41 33.36x47 16-21 and lost.

6) M. Rentmeester – K. Thijssen

White has a solid attack with the opportunity to go to <19>. Piece <20> should be on <14> for black to have a good play against the attack. White played the Samba-swing, going to <19>!

1.23-19!! 27-31

8.28-23 with a winning position for white. The dangling piece on <10> is terrible for black.

7) R. Wijpkema – G. van Aalten

White has a sound right wing attack. Black has not enough grip. Black can't block the attack either. In the game 1.32-28! was played and black can't play 21-27? 28x17 11x22 because of 24-19 & 38-32. 1.32-28 21-26 2.28x17 11x22 3.36-31 26x37 4.41x32 gave white a strong attack and he won the game.

8) T. Sijbrands – A. Schwarzman

Black has strong formations to play against the white attack. Pieces 40 & 44 aren't very active. Black could have frozen white out playing 1...21-27! 2.37-31 13-19! 3.24x13 18x9!! 4.40-35 8-13 5.44-40 13-19 B+. Black played differently in the game, but still won!

Making a movie

1) Black makes the choice how to play this opening. He plays a Springer counter attack with 23-28x28. Now already black must have had the plan to play against a future white right wing attack or centre attack. White will have to develop the pieces at his right wing, so he must attack sooner or later.

2) Black has to do something about the 33-28 threat. If he plays 18...14-19, white transports a piece to <39> in order to change 30-24x24 with a right wing attack and developing the inactive piece on <35>. If black plays 18...14-20 white will build formations at his right (pieces to <38, 40 & 45>) wing in order to develop a centre attack with 29-24x23x29. Black wants to play against an undeveloped right wing, so he plays the accurate 18...4-10!

3) White could go 50-45 & 29-23x23x29, but black removes piece <18> while starting a counter-attack at the other wing.

4) White has just played 28-23, giving black space for a counter-attack at the left wing: 34...18-22!

5) Black could have taken a deep shot: 38...12-18 39.23x12 26-31 40.36x18 21-26 41.12x21 16x38 42.33x42 20-24 43.30x19 8-13 44.19x8 3x41 45.42-37 41x32 but it is not clear if he wins the endgame. Therefore black prefers to continue his strategy of making a counter-attack. 38...22-27

6) 45...18-22! is forcing a breakthrough at the left wing.

S5. Attacking systems

The right wing attack is not the only way to attack. In this chapter we do exercises to master other attacking systems. We also take the perspective from one who plays against an attack.

Analysing positions

K. Overes – H. Verheul

1A) Describe the position and try to judge it.

B) Analyse the position. Try to find the best plan for white.

2A) What kind of an attack does black have?

B) Which move is stronger, 27-22 or 27-21?

P. Meurs – M. Kroesbergen

1.31-26!

3A) What's the intention of this move?

1... 9-14 2.28-23 16-21
3.49-44 21-27 4.37-31

White doesn't have to fear shots with 27-32 38x27 22-28. Check this!
Black also can't play 13-29.

B) Why is 13-19 wrong?

4... 25-30 5.34x25

If white takes 5.24x35 black doesn't make a shot immediately (27-32 20-24 etc.) but prepares the shot.

C) Which move does black play?

5... 13-19 6.24x13 8x28 7.40-34!

Threatening to play 45-40 with the 29-24 threat.

7... 3-9

D) How did white finish off the game?

5) Does black to move have to play 11-16 or 13-18? Analyse the position and find out which move is better.

B) Black can take a standard king shot. Why doesn't he take it?

20... 19-23

9.32-28 23x32 10.37x28 16-21
11.41-37 5-10 12.31-26 20-24
13.29x20 15x24 14.34-30 21-27
15.37-31 3-8 16.30-25 1-6
17.40-34

Black has taken a Roozenburg attack and now the breaking move 18-23 is played. It was also possible to wait one more move (10-15) and then play 18-23.

17... 18-23 18.50-45

A) Why can't white play 18.34-30 23x32 19.33-29 24x33 20.39x37 ?

18...23x32 19.33-29 24x33
20.39x37

The type of game has changed from Roozenburg to a right wing attack.

21.44-39 13-19 22.37-32

C) Why this move?

22... 11-16 23.32x21 16x27
24.38-33 6-11 25.42-38 10-15
26.47-42 8-13?

Breaking the 2 / 8 / 13 tail ...

27.42-37 13-18 28.35-30 23-28

White is surrounding the black attack. Pieces 26/31/37/48/43/39/34/30/25 encircle the black centre position. It's not so easy since black has no real weaknesses.

We will analyse 29.45-40 here.

29.45-40

1) 29...19-23 30.40-35 9-13 31.33-29 14-19

D) How does white answer 31... 2-8?

32.38-32! 27x38 33.43x32

After eliminating the outpost on <27> white surrounds the black centre attack.

11-16

33...15-20 34.25x14 19x10 35.30-24 10-14 is also interesting.

42.34-30 23x43 43.32x1 +/-
1.2) 2-8 36.49-43!!

E) Explain why black is lost!

2) 29...18-23 30.30-24! Taking <24> before black can play 15-20 and get control over this square.

19x30 31.40-35

2.1) 31...14-19 32.35x13 9x18 33.33-29 2-8

F) How is 33... 4-9 punished?

We show a line in which white's strategy succeeds completely: 34.29-24 8-13 (34... 11-16 35.38-33 4-9 is a better defence) 35.34-30 13-19 36.24x13 18x9 37.30-24 9-13 38.38-32! 27x38 39.43x32 12-18 40.32-27 4-9 41.49-44 9-14 42.44-40 7-12 43.40-35 11-16 44.48-43 14-19 45.43-38 19x30 46.25x34!

Black is tactically frozen out, the endgame is easy: 15-20 47.39-33 28x30 48.35x15 23-29 49.15-10 29-34 50.26-21 17x26 51.37-32 26x28 52.10-5 22x31 53.5x39 W+

29.34-29 18-23?

Black should have played 29...19-23 30.30-24 23x34 31.39x30 28x39 32.43x34 9-13 33.34-29 etc.

30.29x18 12x23

G) How did white strike now?

E. Prosman – T. Stam

7) Try to find the best move for black to play!

8) Try to judge this position by analysing it. (White to move)

A. Baliakin – R. Meijer

9A) Describe the relevant features of this position and judge it.

31... 13-19 32.24x13 8x19
33.45-40 2-8 34.42-38 19-23
35.29-24! 8-13 36.33-29!

Black suffers from a lack of space. He goes to <32> but all white's pieces become active.

36... 28-32 37.38-33

Black sacrificed a piece with 32-38 and lost. Let's look at the position after 23-28.

11) V. Shcegolev – A. Gantwarg

1.40-34! 29x40 2.45x34

A) Why this move?

2... 5-10 3.41-37 6-11 4.30-25
8-12 5.34-30!

White takes the crucial square for his surrounding strategy, <24>, under control.

5... 10-14 6.30-24! 11-17
7.38-32 3-8 8.42-38

B) Which move follows after 8... 17-22?

B) 8... 7-11 9.16x7 12x1
10.32-27! 17-22 11.36-31!
8-12 12.38-32 1-7

An immediate 13.39-34 is met by 14-20!
14.25x14 23-29! 15.34x23 18x9 16.32x23 13-18 17.23-19 9-14 18.19x10 15x4 =.

C) How can white prepare the 39-34 move successfully?

12) Both players have an outpost on <24 / 27>. Black also has an outpost on <28>. The position is very sharp, so tactics play a crucial role. Look at the possible moves for white and try to find out which move is best:

- A) 49-44
- B) 35-30
- C) 38-32
- D) 26-21

K. van Amerongen – M. van IJzendoorn

13) White soens't have many good continuations. Which line would you advice white to play? The line should be at least 5 moves for white and 5 for black.

R. Schalley – P. Oudshoorn

14) Both players have a classical outpost. White to play has to take care not to lose due to a shot.

- A) How does black punish 1.48-42?
- B) How does black force a win after 1.43-39?
- C) Can you spot a way for white to escape from defeat?

Strategy

We show a game in which Sijbrands Plays a strong Highland attack against Alexei Chizhov. This was the 14th game in the world championship match Chizhov – Sijbrands. Sijbrands had won the second game, and if he had won this game he would have won the match for sure. But Sijbrands didn't finish off the game correctly and Chizhov escaped. Chizhov won the 17th game and all other games were drawn. Chizhov remained world champion after the 20 – 20 match score.

1) Try to find the winning continuation for black at the 49th move. Maybe you can also find the right move at the 52nd move.

11.50-44 13-19 12.39-33 8-13

13.44-39 2-8 14.47-41

A) How would black respond if white played 14.31-26

14... 21-26 15.49-44 17-21

White launches a Highland attack. Black wants to play against this attack.

16.28-22 18x27 17.31x22 20-25

B) Why does black play to the edge of the board?

18.44-40 14-20 19.32-27 21x32

20.37x28 10-14 21.36-31 26x37

22.41x32 20-24 23.42-37

It seems like white has a good attacking position, but black tries to surround the white position with a weakness on <44>, anyway.

21.47-41! 23x32 22.33-29 24x33
23.39x37 19-23 24.37-32 11-16
25.32x21 16x27 26.43-39!

White deliberately kept his base piece on <50>. Now he can change a piece on <28>
helping the attack on the outpost enormously.

26... 14-19 27.39-33! 2-7 28.40-34 23-28

C) Why is this move obliged?

29.34-30 28x39 30.44x33 7-11 31.41-37

D) Why can't black play 31... 22-28?

E) If black plays 31... 12-18 in order to be able to change after 37-32 (8-12 32x21 22-28 33x22 18x16) black can force a win. How?

31... 9-14 32.37-32 13-18

If black refuses the invitation to go to <25> with 5...5-10 then 6.30-25 10-14 follows and instead of the normal 7.46-41 white can also play the Kuperman-move:

7.47-41! 17-21 (7...17-22 8.34-29 23x34 9.40x29 11-17 10.45-40 6-11) 8.34-29 23x34 9.40x29 21-26 10.45-40 and if black goes to <23> white develops his left wing playing 32-28x28x37 with string centre play. After 7... 20-24 white is going to attack <24>: 8.34-29 23x34 9.40x20 15x24 10.32-28 etc.

6.33-29 White wants to play a Ropozenburg attack. 6.40-35 leads to different types of play.

6... 5-10 7.40-35 10-14 8.46-41 17-22

With a piece on <20> the Drost gambit is rarely good. Black can better play 22... 18-22
23.27x18 12x14 24.32-28 but white has a sound right wing attack.

23.29-23! 18x29 24.24x33 13x24 +/-

D) How does white answer 23.29-23 20x29?

Your first impression might be that white has a good Highland attack. The pieces seem to work together well. But after 12-18! white suddenly has big problems. White can't get rid of piece <18> since he can't build the

3) S. Davidov – A. Chizhov

Black has a Highland attack, piece <29> is supported by a strong centre. Piece <29> can't be threatened and black can build enough formations. He began by building the 11/17/22-tail. 1... 18-22! Black can't play 37-32? Or 21-16 1-7 37-32 now (29-34 14-20 22=-28 17x46).

2.21-16 1-7 3.43-39 12-18 4.48-43 18-23 5.37-31 22-28 8.33x22 17x28 and black won the game.

4) White has a Highland attack supported by a strong centre, but white has also weaknesses. Piece <46> isn't active and white's right wing is weak. Black has control over <24>! His strategy is to surround the centre, if white goes to <29> he can change this piece and after 39-34 (white breaks the 28/33/39-tail) black can change 11-17x17 in order to surround the remaining white centre. A logical line is:
1.45-40 9-14 2.40-34 14-20 3.34-29 20-24 4.29x20 15x24 5.39-34 11-17 6.22x11 6x17 7.37-31 26x37 8.32x41 [8.42x31 17-22 9.28x26 24-30 10.35x24 19x37 11.31x42 25-30] 8...17-22 9.28x26 24-30 10.35x24 19x28 11.48-43 25-30 12.43-39 13-19 13.41-37 19-24 (black trying to break through) -/+.

5) A. Chizhov – A. Gantwarg Wch 2001
 Black has just played the weak 1-6? instead of 7-12, giving white time to centralize piece <36>: 27.36-31! 7-12 28.31-27 12-18 28...12-17 29.40-34! 8-12 (29...24-30 30.35x24 20x40 31.22-18 13x31 32.39-34 40x29 33.33x4) 30.34-30 +/-
29.28-23! 19x17 30.27-21 16x27 31.32x23
 White takes a centre strong attack. Piece <23> can't be threatened and white will slowly reinforce the attack and he won the game: 8-12 32.37-31 26x37 33.42x31 11-16 34.31-27 6-11 5.33-28 13-18 36.39-34 18x29 37.34x23 9-13 38.43-39 14-19 39.25x14 19x10 40.38-32 13-18 41.39-34 18x29 42.34x23 12-17 43.40-34 24-29 44.23-18 29x40 45.35x44 3-9 46.48-42 10-14 47.42-37 17-21 48.28-22 14-19 49.18-12 9-13 50.37-31 21-26 51.22-18 26x28 52.18x9 28-33 53.12-8 W+

6) Zhiyong Xiong – R. Boomstra (Wch rapid 2012). Black is much better. White has too many gaps in his position.
1.37-31? Instead of creating another gap on <32> white should have closed the gap on <38> to reinforce his centre position. 1.43-38 although also now black has the best chances to win, for example: 7-12 2.44-39 20-24 3.29x20 15x24 4.34-29 25-30 5.29x20 18-23 6.35x24 19x30 7.28x19 13x15 8.33-29 15-20 and black will break through at the right flank.
1...26x37 2.32x41 8-12 Black builds formations: 7/12/18 & 4/9/13. 2...19-23 3.28x19 13x24 4.22x13 8x19 would also have forced winning a piece.
3.43-38
 3.48-42 4-9 4.27-21 16x27 5.22x31 18-23 6.29x18 12x32 and white can't win the piece

back. 7.42-38 19-24 8.38x27 24-30 9.35x24 20x29 B+

3...4-9 4.38-32 White closes the gap on <32> but now he has a weakness on <38> ... 16-21! 5.27x16 18x38 6.33x42 7-11 7.16x18 13x24 B+1

7) R. Boomstra - E. Vatoetin

1.16-11! 17-21 2.27x16 6x17 3.48-42 12-18 4.42-37 8-12 5.37-31 and black is out of moves after 15-20 31-26.

8) I. Kuperman – A. Andreiko

Analysing positions

1A) Black has a centre attack with an outpost on <28>. The piece on <10> is dangling. This makes black's right wing weak. If black plays 14-19 white responds 25-20 threatening to go to <14>. At the other wing white can fight to take <27>. White has good formations to play against the attack. In the Drenth zone only <48> is missing. The edge pieces <15 & 25> are active. They help to control the right wing.

B) 1.38-32! 12-17* 2.39-34! Using the gap on <12> to create a new threat. 8-12 3.32-27 17-22

9A) A. Baliakin – R. Meijer

Black has an attack with outposts on <27 & 28>. Black has weak pieces on <11 & 16>. White pieces 26/31/36 keep these pieces at its place, since 16-21 will create an arrow lock. At the right wing white has taken a counter attack. This counter attack is very strong since black's distribution of pieces isn't great. Black has too many pieces at his right wing, compared to his left wing. Black can still use the 2/8/13 tail, in order to chance piece <24> but white will keep on playing pieces to the right wing and reinforce its counter attack. White has the best chances.

Black wants to develop his left wing (after white has gone to <25>) playing 19-23x23x19.
Black could also have played 13... 5-10 since 30-25 isn't allowed then (19-23x23 22-27!
17x46) he can change 19-23x23 on the next

28.38-32! 27x38 29.43x32

White has taken <27> and will allow his left wing to be locked. There are only a few pieces locked by many pieces of black. The black centre can't expand and he must fear being frozen out. If piece 7 is gone <23> will become vulnerable.

White just played the strategic move 38-32 here, but could already have won the game by a standard shot: 39-33! 28x19 27-21 23x34 21x5 W+.

Analysing positions

T. Goedemoed – M. Borghetti

The best move in this position is:

1.28-22! 17x28 2.33x22

White has many tactical ideas. Show the winning shot after:

- A) 8-13
- B) 12-17
- C) 11-17 22x11 1-6

The best defence for black is 2...15-20, but still white can win. The most attractive move seems to be 3.39-33, but this isn't the right move. Black shouldn't play the following moves, show why:

- D) 11-17 22x11 1-6
- E) 24-30
- F) However, how can black punish the 3.39-33 move?

3.38-33 8-13 4.42-38

Black can choose from several defences, we show only one:

4...11-17 5.22x11 1-6
6.48-42 6x17 7.49-44 13-18
8.40-35

Black has no good defence left. Show how white wins after:

- G) 7-11 16x7 12x1
- H) 7-11 16x7 2x11
- I) 2-8

Strategy

1a) Making a movie

14...2-7!

Black develops his left wing, taking 4 temps (after the exchange ♟ = -2) after which he builds a strong centre position.

19...17-22!

Black takes a right wing attack by playing 19...17-22 20.37-31 22-27!

26...18-22

With this and next moves black reinforces the attack.

32...20-25!

White just played 33-29. Black takes the right flank under control playing 20-25.

36...14-20

The outposts are exchanged. Black takes piece <24>; white takes piece <27>. After the exchange the white pieces 21/26/36 become weak edge pieces. At the other wing black starts a strong attack.

41...15-20

Piece 15 is centralized, reinforcing the attack, while piece 30 is pushed to the edge of the board.

44...9-14

Black waits a move before playing 7-11 17-12 11-17x27, which would be strong after 45.42-38. White plays 45.42-37?, after which black wins by a forcing.

1b) Making a movie

6...21-27!

Black doesn't allow white to lock his right wing and plays 21-27. The edge piece on <26> remains.

18...4-10!

Black build a solid centre position with lots of formations. After 4-10 white has to take a decision how to continue.

26...19-24!

White has occupied <29> but black still controls <24>. The next moves are crucial for taking <24> under control.

28...14-19! 29.25x14 9x20

After the exchange <29> is isolated. White's position becomes split. He changes 27-22 giving black a clear (centre) advantage.

34...11-17! 35.22x11 6x17

Black changes the outpost, taking 4 temps (☉ = -8 after the exchange) more and controlling the wings. Pieces 34/35/40/45 are inactive.

37...21-27!

White has a vulnerable piece on <29> again. With some strong moves white is frozen out, black using a chain lock.

41...19-23!

Black finishes off the game, white being frozen out completely.

18...24-30

Black starts the attack he prepared, moving in the direction of white's right wing.

2. Comment on the moves played in the diagrams

7.24-20 15x24 8.33-28 22x33 9.38x20

White changes and gets an edge piece. This is a theoretical opening that has been played many times before.

23...17-21 24.26x17 11x31
25.36x27

Black now changes at the other wing, trying to get this wing under control as well.

12...19-24

White chooses his strategy. In many games black continued 18-23 after some moves, but black already shows his intentions: getting an initiative at the right flank of the board.

27...23-29 28.34x23 18x29

The attack continues, moving to <29> after which it is possible to transport more pieces to this wing, as will happen in the next phase of the game.

38...14-20

Piece 20 is also brought to the beleaguered wing, continuing the attack.

52...30-34

White is completely surrounded and frozen out. A nice strategic game from black!

3. Answer the questions!

A) Black performs a centre attack.

41...11-17

Black wants to freeze out his opponent, so now he takes the left flank under control.

B) Black closes <8 & 10> and will win back the lost piece.

45...18-22

White's centre is being surrounded. White lacks space to play and he is 'strangled' slowly.

C) White can't play 22.38-33? 16-21!, 22.39-33? 23-28! or 22.40-34? 26-31! 23.37x26 23-29!, and 22.50-45 1-6! doesn't change the situation. Therefore white can best return the piece in such a way that black gets a piece on <36> while his left wing is locked.

D) Black prevents black from escaping from the arch lock and occupies the strategic squares <27 & 28>.

E) After 31...9-13 32.41-37 white threatens with the shot 37-31 44-39 40x9, so he has to play 32...3-9 creating a dangling piece on <9>. Black should have played 31...6-11! 32.41-37 8-12 33.44-39 3-8 and black is completely safe. The arch lock is compensated by pieces 40 & 45 which aren't active.

F) 33.37-31!! 26x48 34.44-39 48x34 35.40x18 8-12 (35...24-29 36.16-11! 6x28 37.27-22 28x17 38.18-12 7x18 39.30-24 19x30 40.25x3 W+) 36.16-11 6x28 37.38-32 13x31 38.32x23 19x28 39.30x10 15x4 40.25x3 12-18 41.3-26 36-41 42.26x1 41-46 and white has a winning endgame.
